This document is a current dossier of basic theories, known facts and stories relating to the objects commonly known as “anomalies”. This document is intended to provide a basic briefing for new 3rd Resistance conscripts.

The Scientists describe them as a Temporary Reality Anomalies (TRA). A quantum energy instance where the fabric of space-time is in a fluctuating and muddled state. A more technical description is that they are manifestations of complex multi dimensional knots in the fabric of space-time. They are generally refereed to as “anomalies” or more colloquially by the 3rd Resistance personal as “Tracy’s” from the acronym TRA’s.

WARNING: The anomalies are always highly unpredictable and variable in their size, power and potential. Anomalies will have seriously adverse effects on the function of both yourself and your equipment. Currently there is no guaranteed way to reliably control or protect yourself from the behaviour of anomalies. All anomalies should be treated with extreme caution.

Most anomalies are known to have two key behaviours.

- They alter reality. They are capable of changing all the known laws of physics. Anything from gravity, time, relativity, colour, light, temperature, anything. These changes are rarely constant or consistent and will tend to differ from person to person, moment to moment. The effects tend to be mild at the perimeter and stronger at the centres. However nothing is certain.

- They open gates in time and space. If a person walks through the centre of an anomaly they will arrive in another time and location. As a general rule there is no way to guarantee when or where you will end up. Two persons walking together may not end up in an identical place and time. There is also no way to guarantee you will go anywhere at all. There are exception to all these behaviours.

It is currently theorised that the anomalies are created by the convergence of harmonic nodal points in the audible and visible frequency spectrum. It is believed that finding the accurate configuration and tunings of these harmonic nodal points will harness and control the energy of the anomalies. Not only providing an abstract control of reality but also the ability to move to where and when you want in time.

Historically it is rumoured that there are places on earth where something as simple as a breeze blowing in the tress causes enough natural nodal resonance to create the anomalies. The 3rd Resistance has been attempting to remotely monitor rumoured locations to observe this potential.

It is thought that ancient civilisations were in touch with these special places and even utilised the anomalies for trade, travel and religious power. Anomalies are believed to be related to the establishment of many deity's, demi gods and spiritual leaders.

The Australian aborigines literal descriptions of walkabout makes more sense in the context of anomalies.. It is believed that the Aborigine people were at once proficient and long term users of the anomalies for travel.

The pyramids are suspected to be housings for controlled anomalies that transported the pharaohs at their whim. There is also evidence that the Mayan people made use of the anomalies. Given that they disappeared suddenly, it is thought that they used the anomalies to move their people to another place and left the Mayan calendar as a map of where to find them.

The Maori tales of the Maui describe someone who may of been a ancient master of the anomalies. Every ancient earth culture has stories of groups of people who lived among them who were not of their blood lines. The anomalies may explain these visitors.

In the last 150 years the anomalies have been rare and and almost unknown phenomenon. It is suspected that alongside the lose of ancient knowledge, it is the sprawl of civilisation and the advent of industrialisation and mass communication that has created a cacophony in the frequency spectrums, reducing the potential of anomalies to occur.

Some personal argue that there is a link between the harmony of human living and the formation of the anomalies. And that modern life has become highly discordant, disrupting the historically natural manifestations of anomalies.

However in the mid 60's and early 70 with arrival of powerful sound systems, amplified music and large audiences gathering to listen to the music, stories of anomalies type incidents began to appear again. Notable famous being the Woodstock music Festival.

In the early 90's a music phenomenon known as Rave started appearing as large events in the countryside outside major cities all around the globe. At the same time there was increased reporting of anomaly type incidents from the raves.

From the latest data collected there is solid evidence that raves are responsible for anomalies occurring on a much larger scale than ever before.

3rd Resistance personal who have been lost in anomalies and managed to find their way back to a Unit Base have given reports of raves in the late 20th century and early 21st century being the most common destination upon exiting an anomaly.

After properly compiling the data the 3rd Resistance has located a series of raves at a location called Canaan Downs in the remote islands of New Zealand. Here highly stable anomalies are know to occur in fairly predictable locations. It is believed that the Canaan Downs site is one of the strongest original natural anomaly zones used by ancients .

While the sound systems at raves are successful for stimulating the anomalies, the number of people at the events also increases the number of encounters people have with the anomalies. The numbers of people being accidentally lost or arriving though the anomalies are a strain on 3rd Resistance resources. However this traffic is also useful for mapping some of the behaviours of the anomalies. New data is also showing that the people at events are the possibly a key component to the control mechanics of anomalies. That ultimately it is the energy of the people that adds the crucial fine tuning component to the anomaly control process.

The 3rd Resistance have deployed multiple operations across several time locations at Canaan Downs and are currently attempting to co-ordinate a series of experiments that are intended to establish control over the anomalies.

The political and social conditions of the local timeline make it an ideal place for study of the anomalies. The general technology level is also advance enough to provide the materials needed to conduct the experiments. The sound system technology which appears to be contributing to the increased manifestation of the anomalies has reached a optimum level of functionality and fine tune control.

Original experiments by deep operatives started at the Canaan Downs location as early as 1996. Since then the 3rd Resistance has been inserting more personal into all the timelines until 2011, just prior to the crash after which it becomes impossible to continue experiments.

However by 2007 in the timeline it is no longer necessary to operate undercover and the 3rd Resistance is actively recruiting people from this timeline for the evolution.
